There are several critical ingredients for a successful accounting program. Start with the best students possible, add world-class faculty and highly-engaged staff, then mix with an effective support infrastructure and state-of-the-art facilities and the recipe is almost perfect. The final special ingredient that holds everything together is the strong support of alumni and friends. Fortunately, we have all these ingredients at the Fisher School. We are proud of the graduates who become leaders in the profession and the influential research produced by our faculty and Ph.D. students. Together we have built something of which we can all be very proud.

This report contains a snapshot of our many activities over the past year. We hope to see you on campus or at one of our alumni events in your city in the coming year.

The 2013 Fisher School Annual Report is dedicated to the memory of Dr. John L. “Jack” Kramer, one of the School’s most influential scholars, who passed away in April.

Dr. Kramer made a powerful impact and touched many lives during his 25 years at the Fisher School.
MATT EGE

Dr. Ege joined the Fisher School from the University of Texas where he earned his Ph.D. in Accounting in 2013. During his time in Austin, Dr. Ege taught Managerial Accounting and was nominated for UT’s Fred Moore Assistant Instructor Award for Teaching Excellence.

Dr. Ege also has experience in public accounting having served as a Manager, Senior Associate-IT Audit for KPMG and an IT Security intern at PwC. He also served as Director, Strategic Services for PubNet Security.

Dr. Ege earned a BBA in Accounting and a MS in Management Information Systems in 2002 from Texas A&M University.

SONIA SINGH

Professor Singh joins the Fisher faculty as a full-time Lecturer.

Professor Singh has previously served as an Adjunct Lecturer at the Fisher School having taught Introduction to Accounting and Financial Accounting and Reporting II.

Professor Singh’s professional experience ranges from her work as an Accountant and Tax Preparer for D Singh Income Tax Services Inc. in Orlando, a Real Estate Sales Associate for Florida Pride Realty Inc., an Accountant and Tax Preparer for D. Singh Income Tax Services Inc., as an Adjunct Lecturer at the Fisher School having taught Introduction to Accounting and Financial Accounting and Reporting I. In addition to his teaching and research, he has served on the Accounting Faculty Recruiting Committee, Doctoral Administration 2012-13 Teaching Excellence Grant.

LUKE WATSON

Dr. Watson arrives from Penn State University where he received his Ph.D. in Accounting in 2013. During his time at Penn State, Dr. Watson taught Principles of Taxation and was a Teaching Assistant for Financial and Managerial Accounting for Decision-Making.

Dr. Watson, whose research interests are Corporate Taxation, Corporate Social Responsibility, and Executive Attributes, Expertise and Compensation, was a Tax Consulting Intern for EY in 2001 and 2002.

Dr. Watson earned a BBA in Accounting and a MS in Management Information Systems in 2002 from Texas A&M University.

PAUL MADSEN

Dr. Madsen, an Assistant Professor, was awarded a J. Michael Cook Excellence in Teaching Award which recognizes superior performance in teaching.

Dr. Madsen’s teaching methods are certainly unique. In his Financial Accounting class, he uses the board game Monopoly as a teaching tool. Students in small groups “play” the game throughout the year learning financial accounting concepts as well as how to prepare financial reports. In his graduate elective course on derivatives, he relies heavily on student input in designing the course’s structure.

Dr. Madsen has taught at the Fisher School since 2010.

DAMIEN REPPENHAGEN

Luciano Prada, Sr. Term Assistant Professor Dr. Damien Reppenhagen was awarded a Worthington College of Business Administration 2012-13 Teaching Award (Undergraduate).

At the undergraduate level, Dr. Kirk teaches Financial Accounting and Reporting I. In addition to his teaching and research, he has served on the Accounting Faculty Recruiting Committee, Doctoral Program Committee and as the Research Workshop Coordinator.

Dr. Kirk and Dr. Reppenhagen have taught at the Fisher School since 2009. Among Dr. Kirk’s research interests are financial reporting and disclosure choices, valuation and financial markets and institutions.

Dr. Reppenhagen’s research focuses on accounting choice, diffusion of accounting practices and history of accounting institutions.

Jay Barrett

I was inspired by the success I saw.

Jay Barrett graduated from the University of Florida in 1973 with a BSBA degree in accounting. After graduation, he worked as an accountant for the Internal Revenue Service and then as an executive for the accounting firm of Whitt & Seaborn. In 1985, Barrett became an Audit Partner at De Whitt, where he later became a Managing Director.

Barrett’s journey from accounting to becoming the CEO of Marnell Companies, one of the largest design-build firms in the United States, is a testament to his dedication and hard work. His early success in accounting laid the foundation for his future success in the real estate industry.

Barrett’s people skills came in handy during his professional career. His journey led him to Reno, Nevada, where he founded his own accounting firm, Barrett & Smith CPA’s. For those 13 years, Barrett served as an independent advisor to being involved in some of Las Vegas’ largest real estate dealings. In 1985, Barrett became the senior financial executive and a member of the Board of Directors of The Marnell Companies, which was composed of small- and medium-sized business units involved in planning, architecture, construction, real estate development and various investment activities.

Despite all the success Barrett has achieved, he remains grounded and humble. He attributes his success to the lessons he learned during his time at UF, including the importance of networking, building relationships, and being a leader.

Barrett said, “I learned that accounting was the language of business.” He said, “With an accounting degree you can go into many other fields like marketing or risk management. That meeting, and the encouragement of my professors, really drove me.”

I was inspired by the success I saw. Barrett said. “I love the idea, the hard work and the fulfillment that comes from that. I saw the opportunity to take an entrepreneurial approach to my accounting skills. I saw a need to create and developing projects. I wanted to take that transition from an individual contributor to being involved in the deal making.”

For the next 20 years, Barrett was involved in some of Las Vegas’ most prominent hotel/casino deals. The Rio, which opened in 1990 with 2,544 suites and 100,000 square feet of gaming space in nine years, was acquired by Harrah’s Entertainment, Inc., for $490 million in 1999.

Despite all the success the Rio enjoyed—the major role he played in that success—Barrett doesn’t consider his time as Rio president to be the pinnacle of his career. Barrett said what gives him the most satisfaction is the totality of his work.

Virtually all of the Fisher School graduates looking for employment accepted jobs by graduation. Most begin their career in public accounting with starting salaries averaging $53,500.

Graduate Fellowships totaling $95,500 were awarded to 37 students at the 2013 banquet.

Exam performance for 2012 was recently released, and the results show 112 undergraduate and 27 graduate students from the Fisher School of Accounting took part or the entire exam in 2012. FSOA first-time candidates (both undergraduate and graduate) distinguished themselves by scoring an overall passing rate of 78% for all parts of the CPA exam attempted during 2012. This pass rate placed 10th in the nation among 255 large academic institutions (defined as having at least 60 candidates) participating in the CPA exam during 2012. It also placed the FSOA 23rd in the nation among all 781 academic institutions (defined as having at least 10 candidates) taking part in the CPA exam during 2012.

“The Fisher School’s students, faculty and staff continue to improve along all dimensions,” said J. Roy Duggan Professor Dr. Gary McGill, Associate Dean and Director of the Fisher School. “Our revised undergraduate curriculum is fully in place, and our new generation of faculty has already begun to make a difference at the Fisher School. Our students continue to add value when they enter the profession, and we are all pleased to see the continuing recognition of their quality by our peers around the country.” Additionally, Fisher’s undergraduate program ranked fifth among public programs in U.S. News & World Report’s “Best Colleges 2013” issue.

The average GPA for undergraduate students admitted in Fall 2012 was 3.67.

The average GPA for graduate students admitted in Fall 2012 was 3.39.

Average graduate accounting GPA: 3.59

Average GMAT Score: 627

for the outdoors. Her own show, “Larysa Unleashed,” debuted July 24 on NBC Sports Network. Switlyk was also a contestant on Animal Planet’s “Top Hooker,” a reality show where contestants’ fishing skills are tested. So how did Switlyk go from crunching numbers to hunting big game all over the world?

Switlyk’s love for the outdoors was nurtured during her time at Fisher. She was an avid fisherwoman during her college years, and performed well in local and state tournaments. Switlyk, born and raised in Albany, New York, also engaged in skeet shooting which she said acted as a stress reliever when her studies got the best of her.

But the moment that changed everything for Switlyk was a backpacking trip to Australia. What was supposed to be a brief vacation turned into a six-month journey that changed her forever.

“I fell in love with it and it didn’t want to come home,” Switlyk said. “You always hear about people wanting to go find themselves. It took me going to Australia and New Zealand to find myself, but it did.”

When Switlyk returned home, she decided to combine her passion for the outdoors with her career. She quit her accounting job and became a licensed real estate agent which allowed Switlyk a more flexible work schedule while still funding her ventures. Then, she began to learn the intricacies of how to get a television show about the outdoors on the air. She flew to trade shows, networked with television executives and learned how to secure sponsors. Her accounting background played a crucial role in her efforts.

“Larysa Unleashed” is essentially two shows in one. Half of the season’s episodes will focus on hunting (“Larysa Unleashed”), while the other half will focus on fishing (“Larysa Unleashed Gone Fishin’”). The show takes Switlyk to locales all over the United States and the world, including Spain, Argentina and Costa Rica, creating memorable cultural experiences in some of the world’s most beautiful and pristine settings.

“I was not a trophy hunter,” Switlyk said. “I could understand business so I felt like I could do anything I ever wanted to pursue. It wasn’t enough to just start in New York City—and landed a full-time accounting job at a Big Four Accounting firm—PwC in New York City.”

Switlyk seemingly had it all. Except one thing: She wasn’t fulfilled.

For Switlyk, fulfillment came half a world away. It was on a hunting trip in New Zealand where Switlyk, who grew up afraid of guns and had never fired a rifle, found her calling.

“I didn’t know I had that in me,” Switlyk said. “But I loved it, and I was excited with this newfound passion. I’m sure my parents were thinking, ‘What is wrong with our daughter?’”

Switlyk did what many people with unfulfilling careers are afraid to do: Take an adventure. That adventure has led Switlyk, 27, to an adventure. Her own show, “Larysa Unleashed,” debuted July 24 on NBC Sports Network. Switlyk was also a contestant on Animal Planet’s “Top Hooker,” a reality show where contestants’ fishing skills are tested.

Switlyk said maintaining personal brand control while partnering with NBC Sports Network—owns her show, she owns the air time allocated for her show, and is responsible for acquiring commercial sponsor- ship. Switlyk said networks have offered to buy her show, but she hasn’t sold yet. She wants to produce quality shows, promote a likable and recognizable brand, continue her charity work for children diagnosed with life-threatening illnesses and promote her passion for the outdoors to the world. Securing in all those ventures should lead to Switlyk to achieving her dream.

“Switlyk realizes there is a significant segment of the population that does not approve of hunting, and therefore, might be turned off by her show. Switlyk said her show does not glorify hunting, but instead emphasizes outdoors education and conservation while encouraging young people to get involved in the outdoors.

Thank you

Devoted alumni and friends,

I want to thank you for the generosity you exhibited this past year. Several programs and resources our students depend on for a first-class accounting education would be severely diminished without private giving from our alumni and friends. Because of your efforts the Fisher School remains one of the nation’s leaders in accounting education.

As we celebrate the culmination of another exciting academic year, we invite you to continue supporting the Fisher School. Your gift—whatever the amount—makes a genuine difference in the lives of our students. The names on the preceding and following pages represent the strength and loyalty of our incomparable alumni base, and we’re proud to recognize your generosity!

Thank you!
